Coming home from orthopedic surgery presents new challenges in recovery. Getting back to normal life doesn't mean going at it alone.

Terri King fell in love with being in the business of helping people and believes if you love what you do and are truly passionate...the rest will follow. Hard work, conviction and an enormous desire to provide the best care humanly possible has been the driving force behind the agency while earning respect from several of Oklahoma City's top orthopedic surgeons.

Since 2008, EnTrust Home Health has worked collectively with some of the top orthopedic surgeons in Oklahoma City on developing an Orthopedic Aftercare Program. EnTrust's focus is assisting people with their rehabilitation needs after injury, surgery or hospitalization. The agency's patient census is 95% orthopedic driven. EnTrust's high referral rates are a direct result of their dedication to quality outcomes resulting in trusted relationships with orthopedic surgeons, hospitals, and rehabs, not to mention prior patients and word of mouth.

EnTrust is a team of professionals that treats every patient as they should be...an individual. They work closely with each patient's physician following their specific protocols, establishing individualized goals while diligently monitoring the patient's progress. Post-operative care that focuses on functional and manual physical therapy is their proven method of achieving that goal. EnTrust's dedicated nursing and physical therapy team facilitates faster recovery and restoration of joint motion and function, allowing a return to a healthy and active lifestyle.

After surgery, physicians may order home health for their patient's post-operative rehabilitation needs. At that time, each patient is assigned a team including a registered nurse, licensed practical nurse and physical therapist. If the patient has higher acuity needs, those will be met with additional services: occupational therapist, speech therapist, medical social worker and certified home health aide. Continuity of care is of utmost importance to EnTrust; therefore, a patient will be seen only by his or her team members so that a relationship and established trust will enhance not only the patient's comfort level but also their outcome.

When considering joint replacement surgery, post-operative rehabilitation is an integral part of the overall process for minimizing pain and swelling as well as restoring normal movement, flexibility and function. Let EnTrust be a part of this overall process.

EnTrust received a 2014 Overall Star Rating of 5 (the highest rating) on the Home Health Compare (HHC) Star Rating. EnTrust was once again recognized in the Top 500 of home health agencies in the U.S. for the second consecutive year. In addition, EnTrust was the only agency in the Oklahoma City area to be designated as a Top 500 agency.
